Subject: Microsoft Settlement

The customers are getting the short end of the stick with this settlement. Without question Microsoft is a monopoly and should be treated as such. I work in the computer field and know that there are companies with thousands of P.C's running Windows software. To move to another platform would mean not only buying a new O.S but also all the software and then retrain all the workers. This is not something that can be done in the real world. Microsoft owns the desktop.
